From our REGIONAL SPIRITUAL ASSISTANT

Incarnation is God's Absolute Love & Gift to Humanity: GK Chesterton rightly said, Whatever else is true of man, man is not what he was meant to be. God's dream for us is completely different from ours. God created us by his love, in love, to love and for love. God created us to be good. He did not intend human beings to be evil. God did not create human beings to be an agent of death, destruction and darkness in the world. God's dream for us seems to be destroyed by non-other than ourselves. Human nature got tainted with sin and it resulted in all our sufferings. And yet, God did not give up on humans.

St. Augustin summarized the content of Christmas and said the Son of God became the Son of man so that the sons of men could become the sons of God. So great is God's love for us that He became one of us, so that we in turn might become one with Him. God willed the Incarnation as a free gift for the perfection of the human person and all of creation, not simply as a response to sin. In the incarnation, God emptied Himself, taking on the human form so that He might regain the lost paradise for all of us. The Christmas love, this gift of God's love to us, comes wrapped in silence. Jesus was not born in the splendour of the day but in the silence of the night. God is a great lover of silence. Silence is the great revelation: it reveals God to us; it also reveals us to ourselves. Usually when we look for God, we look the other way, towards the sky. Incarnation is God's movement downward. Incarnation is God coming down, love coming down from heaven to create love. In order to find and encounter God, we need to look within ourselves as we are created in the image and likeness of his Son. Christmas celebrates God's entry into our world as the break of a new day, a light shining in the darkness. Christmas challenges us to recognize and receive Jesus as our light. Like Jesus, we are then to be light amid darkness, rays of hope amid despair. Celebrating this love at Christmas should inspire and induce us to live the Gospel.

Alexander Pope, a British poet said, What does it profit me if Jesus is born in thousands of cribs all over the world and he is not born in my heart? We need to give Jesus the gift of ourselves and he needs to be born in our hearts. The joy of Christmas is not for a day or a season. It is an eternal joy, a joy that no one can take from us because it is the joy of Jesus Christ himself made present in our hearts through the Holy Spirit who dwells within us. Let us take God's love from the manger and share it with the people at home, with people in your offices and with the people in the world.

Overview of The Incarnation, Dr. Google and Sister Ilia Delio, O.S.F: When I visit Ireland, I am surprised that most people check in with 'Dr. Google' on their devices to confirm facts or ideas so when I write this piece I too, check in with 'Dr. Google' and confirm the facts with writings by Sister Ilia Delio, O.F.S. 'Dr. Google' tells us "The Incarnation is the Christian belief that Jesus is both fully divine and fully human, meaning God took on human flesh in the person of Jesus Christ. This is often described as the Son of God being "made flesh" by his conception by the Virgin Mary via the Holy Spirit. It is a central tenet of Christianity, affirming that Jesus was both fully God and fully man."

In her book A Franciscan View of Creation, Sister Delio brings us insights from the Franciscan tradition on the meaning of creation and the relationship of humans to creation when she says "Francis's love of nature grows out of a deep theological conviction that God is truly present to us in the Incarnation. The intimate link between creation and Incarnation is what marks the distinctively positive view of creation in the Franciscan tradition." 'Dr. Google' tells us that a primary purpose of the Incarnation is for God to become human so that humanity could be saved from sin. It is through Jesus's life as both God and man that he is considered the path to redemption for believers.

The Franciscan view of the Incarnation asserts that the Incarnation is God's original "Plan A" for creation, predestined from all eternity and independent of human sin. This position, championed by medieval theologian Blessed John Duns Scotus, emphasizes God's absolute love and the Primacy of Christ. Scotus says "No Christ, no universe. In other words, the universe is dependent on Christ, not Christ on the universe." For Franciscans, Christ is not a "Plan B" or an afterthought to fix humanity's fall into sin. Instead, the Incarnation - God becoming human - is the reason the universe is created in the first place. All of creation is orientated toward Christ as its intended centre and culmination. The primary motive is God's infinite love and desire for complete communion with humanity. God desires to share his life and love with creation in the most intimate way possible - by uniting the divine nature with human nature in the person of Jesus.

St. Francis of Assisi profoundly emphasizes the humility and poverty of God in the Incarnation, dramatically illustrating it by creating the first Christmas creche or nativity scene. This view stresses that God is intimately present in the ordinary, everyday world, not a distant or detached God. This theology fosters a highly positive view of humanity, seeing every person as created in the image and likeness of the predestined Christ, who is the model for all existence. The Franciscan view of the Incarnation centres on the idea that God's desire for intimate, loving union with creation is a more fundamental reason for Christ's coming than the need for atonement for sin.

And let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near.

WHAT'S HAPPENING ACROSS OUR REGION!

The Padre Pio Fraternity in Delta, BC hold the men of Luke 15 House close to their hearts. At fraternal gatherings, the intentions of Luke 15 House are lifted in prayer during the Evening Liturgy of the Hours. Sometimes support arrives quietly — a doorstep delivery of homemade treats, a small reminder that someone is thinking of them. Then an invitation arrived from Director Nigel Vincent & Clarke Umegen of Luke 15 House to share food and fellowship. The fraternity accepted. Marla, fraternity secretary, suggested inviting a friend, Salesian Brother Rob Malusa to the gathering. What unfolded was Franciscans and Salesians breaking bread together with the men of Luke 15 House. Stories were shared; laughter and faith drew everyone together in a new & familial way. They were reminded that God's family comes through many charisms, colours & journeys. As the evening closed — guitars, praise & worship filling the room with hearts truly blessed, they were inspired to gather again.

St Berard Fraternity of Sherwood Park, AB had their Annual Christmas Dinner with the Sherwood Park L'Arche Community & Friars from the OFM Edmonton Friary.

St Clare Fraternity of Chilliwack, BC has a newly elected council. L-R: Pauline (Director of Formation), Liz (Vice Minister), Irene (Treasurer), Miriam (Secretary), Peter (Minister).

On December 14, 2025, the St. Anthony of Padua Fraternity in Richmond, BC held a fund-raising campaign for the benefit of the Franciscan Missionary Union (FMU). The successful event was fully supported by the parishioners of St. Joseph the Worker Parish, who contributed generous cash donations & baked goods for the bake sale table. A big thank you to Fr. Dan Gurnick, OFM, who suggested the idea as well as the all-out support of Fr. Manoj, OFM & Fr. Joseph, OFM.
